

1 Randolph Interior Design

A narrow lot made this new home in Orono tricky when the homeowners requested water views from the front door. Randolph Interior Design came up with what one judge called a “clever solution” by sourcing a striking wall covering with custom colors and installing it upside-down for an ethereal effect to mimic water. For the stairway, 3-inch white oak treads float up to the second floor, and a showstopping light fixture complete the elemental water aesthetic.

co-ENTRANT: Eskuche Design Group

2 Citydeskstudio

3 Tays & Co. Design Studios

1

1 Randolph Interior Design

For this home in Orono, an innovative idea helped solve an impossible request. The homeowners wanted a view of water as they entered their home, but the narrow lot did not allow for that. Randolph Interior Design sourced a custom wall covering with coastal colors for the foyer that was hung upside-down for an ethereal effect. Other details throughout the home include a neutral color scheme and a calming vibe.

2A

2B

2A City
Homes

2B Draper House
Design Co.

FIRST SPACECRAFTING SECOND-A SPACECRAFTING SECOND-B RACHEL DESJARDINS

2nd Place

RANDOLPH
INTERIOR DESIGN

ESKUCHE
DESIGN GROUP

Interior /
Exterior Lighting

3rd Place

RANDOLPH
INTERIOR DESIGN

ESKUCHE DESIGN GROUP

Contemporary
Interior Design
(more than one room)

